

Leaping Bunny approved products

The Leaping Bunny programme is an internationally accepted standard, developed by a number of international animal organizations that defines what constitutes a 'not tested on animals' product. These products may include ingredients that have been required by law to be tested on animals after a fixed cut off date and are thus NOT approved by BWC. Furthermore, BWC SA requires that parent companies comply with BWC standards to the same degree as the applicant company, and this is not included in the Leaping Bunny standard. The following companies have not been investigated by BWC but are endorsed under the internationally accepted Leaping Bunny programme.
